Dear Mrs. Smith —

It is always hard for a student to write for (and to) her teacher, but I shall try. There is so much I would like to say to you, but I suppose it could all be condensed (let us condense our writing!) into the ~~one~~ words! "Thankyou" Throughout this year I have fought against nearly all of your assignments, as I'm sure you guessed. ~~But~~ Yet, when each unit was finished, and I had time to review it and judge it's value, I saw that they taught me so much — not only in h.a., but of myself. I can only thank you again. With best wishes and greatest admiration, Susan Hanson

Mrs. Smith,

I have learned so much from you this past year that I never could find sufficient words to express my appreciation. I may have given you some "bad" times, and for that I apologize, but I have always had a great respect for you. Maybe one of these days I'll learn how to spell. Have fun this summer and I wish you the best of luck with next year's sophomores.

your admirer always,

Larry Stratton

P.S. Try to make it to some of the games next year, O.K.

Dear Mrs. Smith

Not only have I learned much from you as a teacher, I have learned from you as a person. I have never met anyone who I admire and appreciate more than you. I have gained so much from your class & I know I was really lucky when I became a part of your class. I thank you so much for your encouragement & understanding.

Likki Rowe

Miss Smith,
I've never learned so much in one semester before! Sometimes I felt like going out of my mind!
You'll have to excuse my grammar as I am in a hurry. But I've really enjoyed your class and perhaps I will be able to come back to visit you.

these responsibilities.

Yet each person's contribution is more than just his presence; his essence joins with the unique contributions of others to form a home within the house—a community within the walls of the school.

Through three years the individual faces a growing demand to support that which he finds vital and worth enlarging.

INSTRUCTION

With the establishment of mutual respect between the students and faculty, the classroom becomes a center of excitement through the exchange of knowledge.

Mrs. Smith

I really don't know how to say it but I did enjoy being in your class this year & I feel I learned something & grew in some ways as you yourself no doubt noticed Thank you

Mrs. Smith,

Despite the apathy & other such things, I really think we learned a lot. Thank you very much for guidance (I still have trouble with spelling, is this right?) and understanding. Relax this summer and I'll probably see you next year. Becky Silliman

Mr. Richard J. West, Principal

"Today is D Day. You begin with your second period class." A new, flexible schedule was introduced at Roosevelt this year. Students were enrolled in seven classes. These were rotated consecutively five per day, making a complete cycle every seven days. The extra hour in the day was used for "E" or Enrichment period. The departments received priority for certain days, enabling them to call all their students together for special lectures and films. ASR was also able to use E period for assemblies, Student Council, and other meetings.

In the new schedule, students were required to take five subjects and were allowed six or seven with faculty permission. Many students completed their program with a class from the Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Business or Art department.

The new flexible schedule this year allowed the Roosevelt Social Studies department to introduce more cooperative teaching. Students from all history classes were able to meet in the auditorium during E period for special speakers and films.

Students were required to take United States History and Contemporary Problems; World History, Economics, Far East, and Psychology were offered as electives. In addition to regular classroom study, some students visited newspaper plants, worked in campaign offices, and attended an International Relations Conference.

In the Mathematics department, team-teaching was introduced in a Junior-Senior Math class. With additions to the building this program will be extended. New books were also introduced which combined Algebra III and trigonometry into one full year course.

This year the Roosevelt Science department involved all Biology students and four teachers in the Biology team-teaching program. Students were assigned to one teacher but followed a uniform program of labs and lectures. This provided an opportunity for the students to benefit from teachers with particular interests and specialties. Students were also enrolled in Chemistry I and II, and Physics I and II. Chemistry III and Physics III were offered to advanced students.

Because of the new building construction, the biology portable was moved to the front lawn.

The northeast wing was cleared for construction, moving several classes, including biology and chemistry labs, to other parts of the building.

Since the success of last year's experiment in team teaching, Roosevelt's Language Arts Department expanded the program. The rotating schedule enabled classes to meet together to hear special speakers and panels. The flexibility of the system allowed the students to benefit from a variety of teachers and their different approaches to specific courses.

The Sophomore curriculum included the history of the English language and a study of English literature. Juniors in LA11a studied American literature; their second semester's program offered the LA11b course in speech or alternatives of Journalism and Lab Writing. The Senior Reading, Senior Lab Writing, and Advanced Literature courses gave Seniors an opportunity to explore world literature and philosophy.

Speech Arts and Drama courses were offered as electives to all classes. Drama II students presented plays to other classes, while Drama III-IV students were the production staff for the Senior play and the Drama Festival.

Roosevelt's foreign language department offered students the opportunity to develop language skills. French and Spanish were available through the fifth-year level and advanced French classes used books which emphasized modern French literature and philosophy. Paris Match, a well-known French magazine, was also available and many students subscribed. German, Russian, and Latin were again offered this year, and Swedish was introduced, broadening the opportunities for Roosevelt students to learn foreign languages. Roosevelt had the opportunity to host a Swedish exchange student, contributing greatly to the new Swedish program.

The young must care enough to question and to respond.

Part of the senior's year was devoted to the required subject of Health Education. Lasting one semester, the course highlighted such topics as nutrition, anatomy, disease, interpersonal relationships, and mental health. Second semester classes were co-ed. Due to building construction, the girls' classes were moved several times. The general curriculum was supplemented by films and speakers who added personal experience and information during E period.

All sophomores and juniors participated in required PE classes. Senior boys took PE the semester they did not have Health Education, but senior girls were exempt from PE the entire year. Every first period, Mr. Hull's special co-ed class met for tumbling in the Boys' Gym. E period was utilized in the Girls' Gym with trampolines and apparatus.

A new program was introduced in the Industrial Arts department: an Air Craft Assembly Mechanics class was offered after school. Students who completed the one semester course were given priority for jobs at Boeing. A hot metals area was also opened in the metal shop.

The Home Economics department offered a variety of electives. In the foods classes students experimented with new and unusual dishes; in the clothing classes they learned proper techniques for making a garment. Some students elected to take either Home Living or Home Management in a package with Health.

Many students used an extra period to take a class in the Business Education department. A new, one-year shorthand course, based on the alphabet, was offered to seniors.

Many students remain unaware of the people involved in the technical functions of a school: those people who keep the school running smoothly and without whom Roosevelt would surely be handicapped. A warm building, clean floors, supervised lockers, and other facilities were maintained by the custodial staff, working in day and night shifts.

Roosevelt's secretarial staff consisted of eight women who prepared bulletins, absentee lists, attendance records, correspondence, and other paper work.

Preparation for lunch began early in the morning. Each cook had an individual job which she performed daily. In addition to preparing lunch for Roosevelt students, the cooks made lunches for trucking to University Heights, a nearby elementary school. The second semester a breakfast of juice, milk, and sweet rolls was sold before school to hungry students.

Eager sophomores sell Roosevelt decals.

Borrowing an expression from Teddy Roosevelt, the Sophomore Officers chose "Speak Sophly and Carry a Big Stick" as a class theme. Determination, a key word in the attitude of the class of '69, enabled them to achieve good results in such activities as the Clothing drive, United Good Neighbors drive, and Pep Week competition. They also were especially strong in school spirit, making many weekly contributions to the teams. One of these presentations was a turkey given to the Football Squad prior to the Metro League Championship game.

The Sophs sold decals to raise funds for their class and they sponsored an ASR dance in the Spring. Their achievements as Sophs prepared the class of '69 to meet the more demanding challenges of their Junior year.

The Junior Class theme, "When the going gets tough, the tough get going," was applied by the eight committees that worked with class officers to make '66-'67 a busy year. The Drives Committee sold basketball programs and flowers. The first PTA dance of '67, "The Endless Summer," was sponsored by the Dance Committee. The second annual Folk Fest was produced by the Junior and Senior Class Culture committees. Roosevelt sent six students to West Seattle and received the same number in a five week exchange program between the two schools through the ASR Affiliations Committee. The Junior-Senior Dance, "Here, There, and Everywhere," was held during January. Juniors emerged from the year linked by common experience to their classmates and school.

The senior year generates a deepened awareness.

"Going Places '67" was chosen as the theme of the senior class this year. The activities of a senior class are directed toward raising money for such projects as the Senior Prom and the Senior Gift. Several of this year's money-raising events were the bake sale, the pencil sale, the March dance, "Midnight Hour," and the fudge sale at the Senior Play. The funds raised from these projects and the efficient organization of senior class committees provided the basis for rewarding year-end activities. The Senior Luncheon, Cruise, and Prom highlighted the three years shared by members of the class of '67.

The football players enjoy themselves after a victorious season.

"As Time Goes By"
brings to a close a year of happy memories.

The seniors are involved
for the first time in co-ed health classes.

Dear Mrs. Smith - This year has been one of change for me. I came into this class - never being in an honors class before - to tell you the truth - I was scared. I'd been warned before that you were a slave-driver!

ACTIVITIES

Through organized activities each student is able to add his personality to the combined spirit of the home.

- How could anyone be so ridiculous as to say that! True - we've worked hard - but it's been for the learning part - not the grade. I admire you both as a teacher & person. As I said before, this year has been one of change. I've gained a new attitude toward school and teachers and towards myself. Thanks to your superb teaching ability - I have gained a new outlook on myself & others. I've learned that LA - is my best subject - and that I have, perhaps, some talent in writing poetry & acting. These I will pursue in the next 2 years & in my future. Thanks for everything!

Mrs. Lorna Erickson
Activity Coordinator

In trying to effect a new and dynamic student government, the student body officers chose as a theme "ASR A.C.T.S., A Challenge Toward Success." Looking to a successful year, Mrs. Lorna Erickson assumed the position of Activity Coordinator, and a new appointive office was added, the Club Coordinator, who was in charge of the Club Council, a group comprised of presidents of the school clubs.

ASR's major project was to inspire student respect for the school. To accomplish this, a pride in cleanliness around school was stressed, and the student body was assuaged with such signs as Eat Neat, Stash Trash, and Stop Slop.

The officers also urged good conduct at dances and other school activities.

(Missing): Reid Martin, John Hruby, Jim Ulrich, Christ Hunt.

Advisory Council—Jim Davis, Usha Nayudu, Jay Stickler, Joy Bjorgan, Bryce Campbell, Claudia Morse, Betsy Lewis, Chuck Wheelon, Ginny Van Ness, Ben Bryant, Rick Smith.

A complete change was made in ASR committees this year by reorganizing and condensing them for more efficient operation. By combining forces the size of many of the committees was increased and the chairmen, guided by Bob Naon, were required to accomplish more in the same amount of time. Interhigh maintained the same level of activity as in the past with its interschool relations, but its activities were brought closer to the student body through more extensive publicity. The Communications Committee included many past publicity groups and continued the job of keeping the students informed. Make-up Corps spent hours before RHS productions applying make-up and dealing with tensions mounting backstage. The Assembly Committee presented the students and faculty with varied assemblies throughout the year ranging from Christmas with Charlie Brown to speakers with different achievements and interests.

Interhigh representatives, Tim Dearborn, Nancy Worgan, Doug Wilkison, and Usha Nayudu, iron out problems of the march for the school levy.

Working through groups, the student gains new experiences:

This year ASR committees again provided opportunities to serve the school and organize various activities. Sports Boosters promoted school spirit by painting signs, organizing pep assemblies, and selling pep buttons. Members of Pep Club, a sub-group of this committee, supervised the various activities of Sports Boosters. The ASR Dance Committee planned the monthly PTA school dances. Members of this committee helped various groups sponsor the dances by selling tickets, selecting bands, and designing programs in preparation for each dance. The Alumni, College Conference, Vocations Committee was formed, combining the efforts of these three previously separate groups. This committee provided the students with opportunities to meet and talk with representatives from various colleges in the country, and welcomed alumni of Roosevelt during Homecoming Week. Through the Affiliations Committee, the foreign exchange program at Roosevelt was continued with funds from the sale of ski equipment and book-covers. The committee also maintained Roosevelt's affiliation with Suma High School in Japan. The Elections Committee, newly formed this year, organized all elections and compiled rules and regulations concerning them.

Student Forum strived to present controversial issues in their school programs. The committee arranged for various important speakers such as Governor Daniel Evans, Professor Geovani Costigan and Dr. Akira Horita from the University of Washington, to speak to Roosevelt students.

Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to non-military assistance. This question was discussed by Roosevelt's Debate team throughout the year in inter-high competition. The team attended tournaments in Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, and Bellingham. In addition to debate, members competed in impromptu and extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and interpretive reading. In the Bellingham tournament the team placed third in over-all ratings. In March, Jim Stephens and Jim Donnen won a berth to the National Tournament at Nashville by placing first in the N.F.L. tourney for Washington.

Roosevelt's Social Service committee conducted school drives such as the UGN, Clothing, and Red Cross. The committee also did volunteer work at the Orthopedic Hospital and other community organizations.

Future Teachers of America informed students about teaching careers, and helped them with their plans for college and specific teaching opportunities. The students talked with cadets and visited several schools to observe different teaching techniques.

Spades was an organization in Roosevelt for students who were willing to take the responsibility to help handicapped children. The club performed service projects for handicapped centers and members took these children to several Roosevelt basketball games and the Senior Play.

The Pass Sales Committee met during the summer to plan and publicize the sale of student passes. Aided by their efforts, eighty-seven per cent of students bought passes.

The student-faculty Finance Committee handled all school financial affairs. In the spring, it estimated the income for the next year, had each activity submit a budget proposal, and then balanced the projected budget.

The Ticket Force sold the student passes and tickets for all school functions. It was also responsible for the collection of the tickets at the door.

The student grows through service to the school;

This year many girls donated one of their class periods to performing various services for the administration of Roosevelt. In the Main Office the girls acted as secretaries, switchboard operators, receptionists, and file clerks. The girls in the Attendance Office handled the details of marking absentee cards and compiled records. The personal files for all the students at Roosevelt were maintained by the girls working in the Counseling Office. They also assisted the counselors in distributing various materials. In the IBM Office, girls helped prepare, maintain, and distribute IBM records to students and teachers. Members of the Library Club helped the library run smoothly by checking out and shelving books. The activities of this group included an all-city workshop and a field trip. The school staff was very grateful for the services these girls performed.

Roosevelt students who served as study supervisors and checkers helped to maintain a quiet study atmosphere. The study supervisors enforced study hall rules which mainly concerned talking, tardiness, eating, and gum chewing. The supervisors worked closely with Ad Council issuing tickets to those who violated the rules. The study checkers, as well as the supervisors, were selected by the study hall teachers. Checkers sacrificed much of their own time to check and record the attendance of the students and to perform other secretarial services for the study hall teachers.

Promoting an interest in foreign cultures and languages was the purpose of Roosevelt's language clubs this year. As Dennis Mateski, president of Latin Club, stated, "We hope to improve ourselves by studying the past and the present." Spanish Club's piñata party and French Club's play began a year of fiestas, dinners, and films. The annual Roman banquet and slave sale provided the financial support for Latin Club's orphan. A bazaar at a Russian church and German Club's band and dancers introduced the students to the culture of the Russian and German people. Swedish Club was brand new this year and was active with field trips to Scandinavian villages and import shops.

common interests strengthen
human relationships;

A variety of activities was offered at Roosevelt that gave students a chance to participate both for their own enjoyment and as an aid to the school. Roosevelt's Camera Club was reconstructed to be a service to both students and special groups and to teach members the principles of photography. Interested students joined Radio Club, working to receive their amateur radio license. The members of Chess Club were able to improve their skills of chess through their "ladder system" and through their annual inter-school tournament.

The spirit of Ski Club was shown this year through its large membership and enthusiastic officers and adviser. The Club, which sponsored one ASR dance during the year, provided students with the chance to see ski films, listen to speakers, and perhaps participate on the Club's racing team. Organ Club, in its first year of existence, attempted to promote musical workmanship and to provide music for assemblies.

The Audio-Visual, Bookroom, and the Treasury Departments combined their headquarters this year in the bookroom. Each group, however, continued its designated tasks. The A-V squad operated and serviced audio-visual equipment for the faculty. The bookroom was in charge of the distribution of books and school supplies to both students and teachers. The bookkeeping for all student accounts was handled in the Treasury which received, counted, and banked money.

The Stage Crew was in charge of the staging and technical aspects of all Roosevelt productions. For the major productions the Stage Crew not only built the sets, but also worked with backstage equipment and audio-visual aids in the auditorium to provide the lighting and special effects used in the Senior Play, Revue, and the Drama Festival. The crew also assisted drama classes and the school assemblies.

Mrs. Smith,
It's quite an accomplishment
when a teacher
can not only teach you something but be an inspiration with
it. It's meant a lot to me to be able to learn and I hope your class. All your individual help and enthusiasm of, your continuous interest in me has made it worthwhile.
More than worthwhile!

Blast-offs, martians, rockets, and blue and green outlined a busy year of Girls' Club activities. Skyride '66-'67 was the theme surrounding the club's goals and events. The six officers spent the summer making plans that would skyrocket Girls' Club through an eventful year. The traditional Father-Daughter Banquet, Fall Leadership Conference, and Big and Little Sister Party were held while at the same time Girls' Club managed to have a new and fresh look. To begin with, the Girls' Club office, commonly known as the

G.C.O., was given a complete renovation. Striped curtains, pillows, and blue and green flowers replaced the old drab of the past. New committees were added which specialized in promoting better relations with teachers, Boys' Club, other schools, and many foreign countries. The newspaper, Skyline, was broadened in its circulation. Shirley Erickson, rec. sec., summed up their purpose when she said, "This year's G.C. has chosen as its goal to help the girls of Roosevelt in their growth toward adulthood."

...and individual achievement.

This year Torch and Boys' Club worked to involve as many of their members as possible in various activities. Students were required to maintain a GPA of 3.5 in four subjects to qualify for membership in Torch, Roosevelt's honor society. "Eat, Drink, and be Merry" was the theme of the annual Torch banquet, which all members and their parents were invited to attend. Assemblies, featuring guest speakers such as Dr. Peter Raible, discussing the "God is Dead" controversy, and Jonathan Farwell from the Seattle Repertory Theatre, proved to be informative as well as enjoyable. A picnic and several more assemblies were planned as Spring activities for Torch members. Boys' Club also arranged a variety of activities in which the boys of Roosevelt were urged to participate. Many traditional events, such as the car show, were continued. Roosevelt's Boys' and Girls' Clubs co-sponsored one of the monthly PTA school dances. Spring activities included Military Week, the Father-Son Dessert, and a ping-pong tournament. One of the new projects introduced this year was the Ugly Man Contest, which raised funds for the Jerry Lorentzen Foundation for injured athletes.

Through giving himself to others,
the individual extends the home
beyond the school.

Service was given to the school, the community, and on an international scale by Roosevelt's two senior service honoraries, the Golden Spurs and the Roughriders.

To become a Spur or Ruff, a student was required to have a 2.5 grade average and have been active in school and community affairs.

One hour of service to the school each day was required of each Spur, as an assistant in one of the offices, a library aide, or a teacher's secretary. In addition to this, the Spurs worked in various community areas including the Handicap Center, Neighborhood House, Seattle Day Nursery, and many others.

In addition to ushering at games and serving with Spurs at school functions, the Roughriders worked at the Handicap Center, Anti-Tuberculosis League, and were available to help handicapped and needy people throughout Seattle.

Together, the Ruffs and Spurs supported a Korean orphan, O.K., using money raised in a joint bottle drive. This typified the spirit of eagerness to help those less fortunate and able than themselves.

SPORTS

The cooperation within a team translates the athletes' skill and concentration into an effective whole, which generates a unifying spirit.

Mrs. Smith,

This year has been a true experience for one such as I. I believe I have learned more about human nature than language arts, but such is life.

The desire to excel in

The Varsity Football season began with a Ted victory over the Spartans. With a stout defense and an interception, the Teds won, 7-0. The Lynx then fell, 32-22, with Bob Cornell legging 153 yards. The Scots were next to fall, 34-12. The defensive team proved to be one of the toughest in the city, holding the Eagles three times within the Ted's five yard line. The Roughts won this muddy game, 6-0. Hale was then ambushed, 33-18, as the Riders piled up 457 yards for a season high. Art Hall scored three touchdowns and broke the Metro rushing record by carrying the ball 261 yards.

In the most thrilling game of the season, the Teds beat the Rams on the foot of Steve Coccia. A 66-yard pass play from Jim Currie to Hugh Klopfenstein spear-headed the Roughts' scoring. The Beavers then shot down the Teds in the "upset of the year" with a 12-7 victory. But the Roughts bounced back and defeated Sealath, 10-7, for the third Metro Championship in four years under Coach Don Harney.

In the words of Coach Harney, this team was truly exceptional, for they were able to do their best when the chips were down.

All sports are generated by competition.

Although the Junior Varsity football team did not have an impressive record this year, the coaches felt that there was definite improvement during the season. This was evident in the last two games of the year. The JV team was victorious over Ingraham 7-6 and Ballard 22-0. The Junior Varsity ended the season with a 2-3-1 win-loss-tied record, and the fourth place in the Northern Division.

According to Leonard Thrapp, the coach, the Sophomore football team had a great deal of potential. The line was extremely large and the defense allowed only 44 points to be scored against them. Four opponents failed to cross the goal line. The squad started the year slowly, but gained momentum through the season. The Sophomore team finished with a 4-2-1 record and third place in the division.

Coaches Harney, Thrapp, Crowston and Wiper go over a play for a coming game.

The '66-'67 cross country team, despite illness before the all-city meet, came out fifth in the Metro League. This year's team had only one or two returning lettermen; next year's team will have the advantage of five returning lettermen, two of whom are sophomores. Along with the new sophomores, several seniors who had never participated joined the team.

The team trained after school in Ravenna Park for short runs; for long jogs, the runners were given the chance to run wherever they chose. When asked how the team trained, Coach Snowden explained that there was no specific way. He emphasized that it was just all hard, hot work. In this respect, cross country teams are in a group by themselves.

The demands of turning out for a cross country team, staying on the team, and ultimately succeeding are far greater than those of any other sport. The squad this year was unique in that it worked harder, was more enthusiastic, and showed more team spirit than almost any previous team.

Each individual's desire to be best sparks the team.

From the opening tip-off to the final buzzer, the Roosevelt Roughriders jumped, dribbled, and shot in an attempt to equal the winning seasons of past teams.

The team showed tremendous spirit, as they had the ability to come back and win after losing five games by a total of seven points. The Roughriders fought their way from the bottom of the league to end up in a tie for fourth place in the Northern Division standings. The high points of the season were the come-from-behind one point victories against Lincoln and Shorecrest, and a 35 point game by Glenn Davis against Shorecrest.

Teds awarded all city honors were Glenn Davis,

2nd team all city guard; Bill Vandenburg, Carl Anderson, Dean Fliflet, Bob Nelson, honorable mention.

The Junior Varsity team which was composed of the juniors on the varsity squad, finished with a 5-7 record. The coaches felt that the team showed much improvement during the season, because of the fact that many of the JV starters played varsity and could not participate in some of the JV games. The team ended up in fifth place in the division.

The Sophomores had great potential, the coaches felt, but at times this ability was not used fully. The team did show improvement though and it ended up in third place in the division with a 7-5 record.

The athlete gains personal satisfaction through improvement.

Roosevelt's '66-'67 swim team, according to Coach Al Walker, was the best team the school has ever had. This was proved by the victories over Hale (137-78) and Ingraham (117-97). First places in the All-City meet were captured by both the boys' and girls' teams. The girls placed first in diving, while the boys took second and sixth places.

The Roosevelt girls' ski team placed second and fourth in the slalom and first and fifth in the giant slalom. In the cross country they took sixth place; in the jumping, second. In over-all standings, they were third. The boys captured fifth place in the giant slalom. Over-all, they were fourth in the slalom and first in the giant slalom. In the combined totals, they were fifth.

The efforts of each explode into team success.

Bob Nelson warms up on the pitcher's mound.

The Roosevelt varsity baseball squad had several challenges to meet this year. Not only was the home field marred by building construction and heavy equipment, but since there were only four returning lettermen, the majority of the players were juniors. The Teds recovered from a first-game, six-run shutout at the hands of Shoreline, by dumping Garfield, 4-0. Hale proved more difficult, gaining a 5-4 victory over the 'Riders.' The team defeated their next two opponents, Ingraham, in a thirteen inning marathon, 1-0; and Ballard, 3-0. However, the Teds lost the final two games of the first round: Shorecrest, 2-1; and Lincoln, 2-1.

Unable to beat this run of bad luck, Roosevelt lost the first two games of the second round, against Hale, 1-0; and Shoreline, 6-2. As the closing games drew near, the prospects for a winning season were fading.

The third baseman makes the final out of the inning.

"Close, but no cigar!" mutters Roger Mantei as he heads for the bench.

The Lincoln batter tries in vain to beat Mike Benjamin's throw to first.

The unity of a team makes possible closer human contact.

Although the junior varsity baseball team started its season with five losses, no wins, and one tie, some of the games were lost by one or two runs. After eleven innings, the game with Hale ended in a 4-4 tie. With the exception of replacements for shortstop and second base, the team will retain all of its members.

The Roosevelt tennis team, with five returning lettermen, started off with two wins and two losses. The losses were to Ballard and Lincoln, and the victories were over Shoreline and Ingraham. Next season's team, with seven returning lettermen, promises to be a very strong one.

The Roosevelt golf team, in the first of four matches, came in third with 190 points, behind Ingraham, Ballard, and Hale. The team, with a very strenuous workout schedule, was often on the greens until 7:30 at night.

In a practice game, Darryl Dick comes close to tagging Dan Boyd out at first.

The exhilaration of athletics generates a responsive atmosphere.

This year's Roosevelt cindermen, under the direction of the new coaches, Mr. Crowston and Mr. Labounty, were expected to show very well this season. The team was composed of many of the Teds who were undefeated as JVs last year. However, building construction and bad weather hampered turn-outs at the beginning of the season, making practices difficult. To solve this problem, the trackmen ran around Green Lake and Lower Woodland for their practices.

Halfway through the season, the Teds had posted victories over Shorecrest, Ballard, Lincoln, and had taken fourth in the Relay Carnival.

Standouts for Roosevelt were Byron Richards, shotput; Hugh Klopfenstein, high jump; Steve Coccia, high hurdles; Chris Reiser, low hurdles; Buck Evans, Ed Mace, Don Harris, pole vault; Scott Clawson, two mile; Dick Lewis, one mile; Bill Oliver, 880; Art Hall, 440; John Enger, Gary Herrig, Don Hartnett, sprints.

Song and Yell Leaders practice the Victory yell for an upcoming game.

Athletes together build a community.

This year's song and yell leaders were chosen last spring by a team of judges composed of teachers, pupils, and last year's song and yell leaders. Along with the marching band at football games, and the swing band at basketball games, the song and yell leaders led the student body in supporting the teams at all varsity games and pep assemblies. They used old yells, original ones, and gained others through inter-school exchanges and desserts, some of which they hosted. They also promoted general spirit by selling pep buttons and making pep signs.

This year the boys' intramural sports program provided an opportunity for both hard, physical work and enjoyment. Headed by Mr. Dean Brink and Mr. Ray Williams, the program included weight-lifting, basketball, track and field, and tennis. However, the program was not designed only for boys. One of the favorite activities was the co-ed tumbling and apparatus.

The girls' after-school program, headed by Miss Chris Hovland, provided similar opportunities. However, it also gave the girls the chance to earn points toward their Rho Club letter. Archery, track and field, tumbling, volleyball, basketball, and badminton were included in this program. A volleyball team of selected girls took part in an all-city volleyball tournament. Rho Club also observed the tradition of selling pom-poms during the football season.

PRODUCTIONS

From individual talent and effort, a production emerges which moves the individuals beyond themselves for a moment, into the realm of imagination.

Mrs. Smith.

Artistic productions combine the talents of many.

"Thieves won't hurt you," viewers of this year's Senior Play, Thieves' Carnival, discovered. The romantic comedy, written for a modern setting by Jean Anouilh, was deliberately set back into the 1890's by director, Miss Norma Wills. It portrayed the attempt of the elderly Lady Hurf to amuse herself by entertaining three pickpockets masquerading as ruined Spanish aristocrats. The result was that the youngest thief, Gustave, and Lady Hurf's heiress niece, Juliette, fell in love.

The performance, although simple in appearance, required precision timing due to live clarinet music accompanying entrances, exits, and scene changes. Also necessary was a combination of modern and stylized acting. Three separate sets, antique props, and elaborate costumes contributed to the intricacy of the over-all production, while the repeated use of masks and disguises demanded a polished performance on the part of the actors.

"The Three Musketeers Manoeuvre is the classic routine for nursemaids."

"On a wonderful day like today."

"We must have done something good."

An effective creation makes varied demands on each participant.

"Belly up to the bar, boys!"

"Ach du lieber, the temperature no go down."

"Mercy! The 9:02—just outside the station."

"Watch Those Sidetracks or Love on the Rails" was the theme for the 1966-1967 Rhythm and Riots Revue. Under the direction of Mr. Ivard Strauss, Jean Kirkpatrick, and Sue Hinea, the 27th Annual Revue was held on February 3rd and 4th. When the 9:02 lost its caboose near Oso, a Hollywood producer discovered a young starlet and took her to Hollywood where she starred in a movie. For a publicity stunt, the world premiere of the movie What Ever's Right was held. Finally the starlet gave up her career to marry her boyfriend.

The death of Mr. Ivard Strauss on March 8, 1967, was a great loss to Roosevelt High School. Mr. Strauss gave himself and his talents to the Drama Department for twenty-seven years. In 1940 he organized the first Rhythm and Riots Revue and continued to offer his guidance and inspiration as the adviser. "... the Revue was Mr. Strauss."

The individual offers his excitement and his concern.

Working together, the members of the Revue Committee successfully produced the 27th annual Rhythm and Riots Revue. Each of the six subcommittees was responsible for the creation of a certain aspect of the show. The Continuity Committee wrote the script and directed the production. The Music Committee chose the song and dance numbers while the Dance Committee was in charge of the choreography. The Technical Committee built all scenery and props, and the Costume Committee provided the costumes for the cast. It was the job of the Publicity Committee to promote tryouts and the final production. Under the direction of the Junior and Senior Chairmen and Mr. Ivard Strauss, the adviser, this year's Revue was truly a fine example of student responsibility and creativity.

The Garbage Can of Life

To create, each begins with his own experience;

Potpourri, the theme of the 1967 Drama Festival, was a student production presented the week of April 24-28. The company managers of the entire festival and the directors of each of the nine plays were members of the advanced drama class. They chose the plays and casted them from tryouts which were open to the entire student body. Each one-act play was from twenty to thirty-five minutes in length, and all were presented after school the first four days of the week. Judges chose the three best plays from these which were presented on Friday evening. Special awards were presented for outstanding performances on Friday night by the company managers and by Jonathan Farwell, a prominent member of the Seattle Repertory Theatre, climaxing an exciting week.

The Garbage Can of Life, by Conrad Seiler, portrays the conflict of personalities caught between a world of reality and one of illusion.

Transcending self, he gives significantly.

The rotating schedule, new to RHS, made rehearsals irregular for the Marching Band. Therefore, under the direction of Mr. Taylor and drum major, Ed Tobey, the band practiced during E period. The Swing Band, also facing this conflict, rehearsed every other first period. During football season, the Marching Band promoted school spirit at pep assemblies and games. Other activities included various concerts and contests which were held throughout the year. The Swing Band, under the direction of Bill Bent, appeared in new pep outfits this year. Their activities consisted mainly of performing in the basketball games and in a few concerts.

Each participant expresses his own perception of truth;

Members of "the orchestra" this year may have belonged to as many as five different musical groups. The concert orchestra, of which most were members, was the group with which they were generally identified. Members of the chamber orchestra (made up primarily of strings and woodwinds) formed self-directing ensembles of three, four, and five people, which enabled them to play seventeenth and eighteenth century music written especially for such groups. Revue orchestra members, chosen through auditions, produced all orchestral music accompanying the Rhythm and Riot Revue. Student director Jerry Jensen coordinated their efforts. Festival orchestra, a city-wide organization, prepared for the National Music Educators' Convention to be held in Seattle in the spring of 1968. The event will be sponsored by the city's public schools. Many Roosevelt students were members of Youth Symphony as well, a privately endowed program open to musicians from ages sixteen to twenty-one.

many visions combine to convey a greater truth.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Tembreull, a new faculty member, Roosevelt's five choral groups performed at the Holly-berry Arts Festival in December, the Spring Concert in May, and at various school assemblies throughout the year.

A new musical ensemble, the Trouvères, was established this year. It consisted of thirteen members who sang all types of music. Madrigal Singers was composed of six members. These two groups along with the Concert Chorale and the Nonettes performed for churches, clubs, and organizations throughout the community.

Editions of the Roosevelt News have looked the same for the last nine years. However, to begin the 1966-1967 school year, the RHS News staff chose a new format which gave the school newspaper a different appearance.

The RHS News staff, composed of both newspaper and advertising staffs, worked under the direction of Mr. Peter Rybock and the editors for the fall and spring, Nancy Wilson and Zenaïda des Aubris. The News staff, meeting during sixth period, and the advertising staff, during seventh period, planned the layouts and prepared the content for the publication of the Roosevelt News.

Assisted by Inter-High, a Nathan Hale Sentinel-Roosevelt News was published on October 28, 1966. The hope of "stimulating a spirit of comradeship in an area neither athletic nor academic" between the two schools, was expressed by the schools' editors.

Art demands a response from all who experience it.

Two student-formulated publications, Lab Writer and La Douce Vie, were sold to the student body of Roosevelt during the spring of this year. Lab Writer, a collection of the better creative efforts of Roosevelt students, was unique in that distinguished contributions were chosen by a selective board which met weekly throughout the year to read, discuss, and vote on manuscripts. All members, including Mrs. Sally Bryan, adviser, had an equal voice in the acceptance of all works. La Douce Vie, under the direction of two editors chosen by the students of Madame Sarah Vyborny's French classes, was prepared for publication through the joint efforts of several committees, and was printed professionally this year for the first time. La Douce Vie provided a means of self-expression while developing the student's familiarity with a foreign language, while the effort put into Lab Writer made it one of the best high school literary magazines in the state.

"Will the meeting please come to order!"

The finished creation is a common vehicle through which students meet and communicate.

The theme of the 1967 Strenuous Life focused on the school itself as a unique and vital community. Several new changes were made in this year's annual including larger pictures, a different arrangement of the sections, and an addition of four more pages to the book. Staffers not only met third period each day, but also spent many hours before and after school working on the annual. The Strenuous Life Staff combined pleasure with work to create a new book which reflected the new challenges Roosevelt met this year.

The Staff also faced a great loss. In January, 1967, Karl Figley, Sports Editor, was critically injured in an automobile accident and remained in this condition at the time of publication. Each individual felt the loss of Karl's wonderful personality and leadership. The Staff made a unified effort to carry on the enthusiastic job he had begun for the Sports Section.

Staffers celebrate Mrs. Reinecke's birthday with a homemade four-by-five foot cake.

As a house, Roosevelt provides shelter; yet it must not confine the life within its walls. Sensing the limits of the school, the student moves beyond the security of the home he has created. The understanding gained is particular to the individual; he must now relate what he has learned to the challenge of creating new homes.

Mrs. Smith -
your constant smile has kept me going so many times - you'll never realize. I've had many ups and downs this year. I am now up, but I think you know when and why I was down. You're so all-seeing! If you keep on being cheerful and understanding - even on your down days - I think you will always be everyone's favorite teacher, including mine. Thank you for everything during this sophomore year. It is important and you helped me through it.

To Dave Worcester, Mark Worcester, and Tim MacRae for their photographs.

To Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., for the excerpt on page three from The Little Prince by Antoine de Saint-Exupery.

To the administration, faculty, and students of Roosevelt High School.

Mrs. Smith -

Thanks - for keeping after me and watching out for me all year. You've been more than a teacher - a sort of second mother. Without your help I don't think I would have pulled out of that mess.

I guess I've gotten more from your class from any other, both in respect to subject and human affairs. Keep emphasizing the human aspect of the course; it's a wonderful thing for kids at this age. Thanks again.

Mrs. Smith.

I really think that I learned more from your class than any other I've ever had. Now I hope I can apply it, and overcome my basic laziness. Thank you very much.

Mary Koch

Mrs. Smith:

Being in your class last semester was certainly been an experience. It was the very first Language Arts class that I have really enjoyed. Looking at the picture at the left I feel as if you, in Language Arts, have led me down the path of English and have showed me how to like it.

Thank you very much Mrs. Smith

Yours,

Blanca de Hebris

Dear Mrs. Smith,

What my first year at R.H.S. would have been like, without you as a teacher, I don't know, but I would like to say that you were the only teacher who seemed to be more than a teacher, but a friend. Your faith in me kept me going. Your friendly attitude also helped.

Thanks for everything!
Your friend,
Deena Janison

It's been a "real" fun year. Some of the topics we studied were of great incentive to me. But some of the units... oh well. Have a wonderful summer, forget about school, don't forget to come back. I better try to be concise.
See ya'
Carol Strub

Thank you for your help and motivation.
I will be back soon.
Love,
Carol Strub

Mrs. Smith,

Once I got over being afraid of being in your class, I really found it enjoyable and beneficial. I learned much more than in any other language arts class. This summer I plan to read many of the novels and non-fiction books which I became acquainted with. I feel I'm much better prepared for college after being in your class. Thank you for everything and have a wonderful summer.

Sincerely,
Karen A.

Mrs. Smith -

Your class has been a real challenge and an inspiration to me. In spite of all the work I enjoyed myself and felt I learned! This was the most important. Congratulations on being new Spur advisor. I know you will have a great year.

Thanks Again,
Ann Rickett
Class of '67

Dear Mrs. Smith,

I have enjoyed being in your class. You are a teacher I will not forget. (Amazably)

Joyce Russell.

Mrs. Smith,

I have enjoyed being in your class this year. I have learned more in this Language Arts class, than in any other. Your smiling face has been an inspiration to me. You seem to be a teacher who really cares about what you teach. and this has made me work very hard to please you. I want to thank you for all your help and patience. It has been of great importance to me. I want to wish you the best of luck, now and always.

Sincerely,

Connie Stinson

Mrs. Smith,

Next year, watch the door when you are driving out of your driveway. It was really a trying year, team teaching and all, but I made. I hope you've prepared me for a rewarding college life. I really enjoyed having to have to work in your class.

I'll stop by in the future, I'm sure you'll be here for years.

a friend

John
Enger

Mrs. Smith,

It has been really fun in L.A. this year and most of it was having you for my teacher. I have really learned a lot and, I think, I now enjoy reading a little more. I hope you have fun in Japan this summer and I will see you next year.

Sincerely yours,

Jan Parad

Mrs. Smith -

Most of the time your class was a pleasure - & when it wasn't - well, I made my own fun (with Donna's help).

I feel that I have climbed a mountain now that this class is over. It's a great feeling. I appreciate your instruction & guidance, & will always remember your cheerful, smiling face. Thank you for being what I consider an outstanding teacher.

Best Wishes,

Nancy Henschel

Mrs. Smith -

Even though I wasn't one of your best students I enjoyed the class every minute. Thank you for all of the help and understanding on my work. I really feel that I have improved my writing and reading thanks to you. Thank you for being such a great teacher.

Dan Boyd

Dear Mrs. Smith,

Believe it or not, but it is in your class, this year, that I learned more about the Americans, the United States, and the American language than in any other class or at any other occasion. I also have enjoyed every minute in your class and now that it is all over I realize how lucky I was to get you as a teacher. Thank you for everything and I really hope I'll have you as my L. A. teacher for the ~~two~~ years to come!

Thanks again for everything
Henri (that noisy guy from Holland)

Mrs. Smith - I've really enjoyed your Language class and it has been a great experience for me. Would you believe that I've never met a teacher quite like you; it's amazing that you actually taught me something and here's wishing you the "Best of Luck."

a pupil,
Jerry Gregersen

Mrs. Smith - your class last ^{semester} was more beneficial to me than any I can think of. I feel more secure in my L. A. skills + I hope to do well next year at the U & W.

I also thank you for bringing Bruce + me together. He's a wonderful boy + we've developed a lasting friendship.

Shirley Erickson

Mrs. Smith,

What a thrill to sign your ~~own~~ annual! You're a great teacher and I've appreciated your help. Thanks!

Collins

P.S. Beware of the Jabbarwock!

Mrs. Smith,

I don't quite know where to begin. It seems everyone else says something like "Boy class with you was well it was hard." and it was. But it was much more than that. You are a stimulating and interesting person. I remember in class often you'd say something and I would think "yeah" she's right, gee cool." or sometimes I would get upset and "No. She's wrong, how can she say that". But whether I agreed or not at least I thought you sort of make me think of Mrs Wyborny. She really cares about kids and their learning. I don't like to become attached to people (at least that's what I keep saying) but I think you're a special person. I wanted to do something for you but as ^{your} a teacher I felt I couldn't, at least as Barb. So I became the Prophet. It sounds sort of stupid I guess but I felt I got something out of giving. I didn't want you to know who the Prophet was, because then it would be all different. Well now I'm Barb again, a little more reserved, and a little more self-conscious, but at least I'm not pretending. I wish you all the luck in the world. Thank you for all you've done for me. Take care of Cammy for me. Thank again.

As Always Barb Hanson
